

The sunlight clings to each inch of my skin,
Claggy air flitting through my shorts,
Vietnam's scent engulfing me
Ruckus fills the air
Thick with smoke and black-haired heads
And the noises of traffic
Lulling me to slumber
In my hot sticky home