PANEL

Inherited memory

Sunday 22 June, 2pm–3.30pm

GLEN EIRA TOWN HALL

Join Rachele Unreich, author of A Brilliant Life; Mayaa Lee, co-author with Magda Hellinger of The Nazis Knew My Name; and Anita Lester, artist and musician. They will share their experiences as second and third generation descendants of Holocaust survivors.

Through writing, memoirs and art, these women are making new meaning from ancestral trauma, while often grappling with the generational impacts themselves. Their voices add to the collective history of survival, loss, and resilience — ensuring memory endures, an unbroken thread connecting past, present, and future.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival and moderated by Dr Simon Holloway, Melbourne Holocaust Museum.

Suitable for ages 15 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

PANEL

The power of the podcast

Monday 23 June, 7pm–8pm

CARNEGIE LIBRARY AND COMMUNITY CENTRE

Since the true-crime podcast Serial revolutionised the genre in 2014, true crime podcasting has exploded in popularity. In this panel event, three celebrated writers and podcasters — Vikki Petraitis, Richard Baker and Emily Webb — unpack the evolution of true crime storytelling in Australia. From reigniting cold cases to driving legislative change, true crime podcasts have become powerful tools for justice and visibility.

Join us as we explore the evolving role of listeners, the impact of a new kind of investigative reporting, and how creators walk the fine line between entertainment and responsible storytelling.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival and hosted by Claire Halliday.

Suitable for ages 16 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

TALK

Author talk: In the Margins

Tuesday 24 June, 7pm–8pm

BENTLEIGH LIBRARY AND YOUTH HUB

Join Gail Holmes for an intimate discussion about her debut historical fiction novel, In the Margins. Inspired by the real-life Frances Wolfreston, a woman who dared to think, write, and defy expectations in 17th-century England.

In the Margins explores the sacrifices Frances made as an intellectual woman — risking everything to protect words, books and literature, including her efforts to preserve the only known copies of Shakespeare's earliest works.

A must-attend event for fans of Tracy Chevalier or Pip Williams, this is a tale of resilience, passion, and the power of literature to transcend time.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival and moderated by Fi Wright, book reviewer for Triple R Breakfasters.

Suitable for ages 16 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

TALK

Warra Warra Wai

Wednesday 25 June, 7pm–8pm

GLEN EIRA TOWN HALL

Join authors Darren Rix and Craig Cormick for an illustrated discussion on Warra Warra Wai. The book explores the experiences of those who watched the Endeavour from the shore — how they understood the arrival of the strangers, and the often brutal and lasting impact these encounters had on their people and lands.

Rix, a Gunditjmara-GunaiKurnai man, and Cormick travelled along the east coast, visiting places renamed by Cook, and listening to stories passed down through generations. With permission, these stories have been woven together with European accounts and placed in their deeper context: the places Cook renamed already had names, and the places he 'discovered' already had stories and histories, stretching back before time.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival.

Suitable for ages 15 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

PANEL

Beyond the manuscript: the art of book editing

Thursday 3 July, 7pm–8pm

GLEN EIRA TOWN HALL

How does a manuscript transform from a draft into a published book? What challenges arise in the editing process, and what opportunities emerge along the way?

Join authors Tony Birch, Jennifer Down, and Myfanwy Jones, along with editor Ruby Ashby-Orr, for a deep dive into the art and craft of book editing. From big-picture structural edits to the meticulous work of line editing and proofreading, our panel will unravel the complexities of refining a manuscript. They'll share their personal experiences — both the hurdles and the creative breakthroughs — offering an insider look at the crucial role editing plays in shaping the final book.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival and hosted by broadcaster and author Jacinta Parsons.

Suitable for ages 15 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

TALK

Creative conversations

Tuesday 8 July, 7pm–8pm

ONLINE

Join playwright and screenwriter, Michelle Law, and author Alice Pung for an intimate conversation about their enduring friendship, their creative journeys and influences, and the process behind turning Alice's acclaimed novel, One Hundred Days, into film.

Part of the 2025 Glen Eira Storytelling Festival and hosted by writer, journalist and screenwriter, Benjamin Law.

Suitable for ages 15 and up. Free event and bookings required at www.storytellingfestival.com.au

A webinar link will be sent to participants upon registration.
